Use of Images

At Skills London 2017 the organisers will be filming and using photography to broadcast the event and for future marketing. By attending the event you agree to be filmed or photographed and that all copyright and other like rights will be assigned to the organisers (London First and Prospects Services Ltd) and that you waive your moral rights in relation to each of those photographs. The images will appear online and may appear in printed or electronic publications. Images and video will also be sent to the news media.

No individually identifiable images will be used if at the time of the photography or filming taking place objections are raised by participants.

The images will only be used with permission of the organisers. All reasonable measures will be undertaken to ensure these images are used solely for the purposes for which they are intended. Please note that our websites and publications can be viewed internationally, not just in the United Kingdom where UK law applies.

Exhibitors will not be able to obtain images without the consent of the organisers.

Images may be transferred both electronically and by post, and while every effort is made to ensure they are transferred securely, the organisers accept no responsibility for images lost or stolen in transit.

In addition to dedicated event photography and filming there will be press and media crews invited to attend Skills London 2017.
